Water Valley Notes.

from our own Correspondent

Mrs. T. Bartlett of Calgary is visiting at the home of her sister Mrs. Howard Gazely.

The youth of the community from 89 years of age down all went to the Dog Pound Sports last week and had a lovely hot dry day with plenty of amusement.

A new timber inspector visited our community during the week. Also a representative of the Department of Municipal (miserable) affairs.

It is rumoured that a wedding will soon be solemnized in the district between Miss Eadie, niece of Malcom Eadie and George Whitlow. Both lucky.

Mr. and Mrs. George Day celebrated their twenty ninth wedding anniversary on the 27th by visiting the King's of Sunset Ranch, Loch End. Mr. T. Fieldhouse was best man while Mrs. T. Fieldhouse was Matron of Honor. Miss May King said the groom looked lovely with his corsage of Dalphinians, while Adam presented the bride with a fist full of don't-forget-its.

Aim at perfection in everything, though in most things it is unattainable, however they who aim at it, and persevere, will come much nearer to it, than those whose laziness and despondency make them give it up as unattainable.—Chesterfield.

The neighbors are taking turns wearing the bass ball mask when they visit Sam DesJardine.

Last year our road slogan was "Come to Water Valley for bigger and better bumps." This year you can safely step on it up to ten miles per hour. The improvement is due to the working out of arrears supplemented by vouchers.

Opinions expressed re the War Memorial. A fitting tribute and expression of appreciation. Why couldn't they have had more while they were here? What are we doing for the veterans and dead of future wars? Another person wanted to know what it was all about and thought if it came to a vote in the democracies between Kaiser Bill and Hitler that the Kaiser would have a large majority.

Mr. Walter May was a business visitor to Calgary on Friday the 28th.

Miss Eva Silbernagle is visiting at the home of her parents and will take charge of the home while Mrs. Silbernagle visits old friends and neighbors in the Garfield district.

The platform dance at Bituma flats on Friday the 28th was well attended.

We saw Albert Sailer hauling lumber from Ronquists. Allan Whitlow trucking poles. Major Gow repairing his steamer and Jack Dickson hauling logs. Keith Borton debating politics and Henry Borton cooking at the Surveyors Camp and a few thunder clouds that didn't deliver an ounce of moisture.

The regular Saturday night dance at the Water Valley Hall reports an overflow of attendance. This dance is held every two weeks.

Around Field And Barn.

By E. M. C.

Should we not be thankful that we live in this morally enlightened age? We are indeed fortunate as compared with our now remote ancestors.

When men died young and painfully, and did not have the wonderful religious, educational and economic advantages, we enjoy, and use to such praiseworthy ends.

In those far off days men were treacherous and cunning, and would take by force that which rightfully belonged to another. Tribes and nations constantly at war to control the desirable camping sights and the richest pasture or the power to barter on their own terms.

Implements of war were crude and cruel, torture was common, poison gas was unknown, of course, but poison arrows were quite effective, and were, no doubt, a great advantage. Communication was slow, travel tedious and often dangerous, and speed was restricted to physical efforts.

Except in very exceptional cases, women took no part in the affairs of the tribe (politics) and life was one continued effort to survive. These poor souls made human sacrifices to gods of stone, and later gold, and believed without question, what ever the medicine man wished them to believe.

As a race or a group grew powerful, they made slaves of the conquered ones; we, of course, have outgrown that practice long ago. We believe in individual freedom and privileges to none.

They knew only physical violence and cunning as a means to power, the finer and more artistic methods to that end were unknown. Their unenlightened

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Brown of Madden visited the Days of Water Valley Sunday.

The Unity meeting Monday night at Water Valley was well attended. Glen MacNicol, George Oldfield and Albert Sailer were selected as delegates, Bill Franks as an alternative delegate. This community is meeting conscious ones had not yet acquired the habit of permitting a wrong, and then trying to correct it by community effort or orders in council.

Progress being irresistible, they evolved in spite of themselves. This more rapid advancement was delayed, however, by the activities of the medicine man, who had his own interests to consider, and those of his followers.

We having overcome that handicap, are now making really wonderful progress.

It is very gratifying to look back and realize how far advanced are our moral and social conceptions.

We live in a wonderful age, do we not? we make such valuable and commendable use of our increased knowledge, that we should be, and are justly proud of our achievements. We have freedom of speech, secret ballot, a free press — and democracy.

Beyond The Editor

The office boy entered the editor's office and said: "There's a tramp outside who says he hasn't had anything to eat for six days."

"Bring him in," said the editor. "If we can find out how he does it we can run this paper a while longer."

The World of Wheat.

By H. G. L. Strange

The Armistice, which concluded hostilities in the late Great War, came into effect at 11 a.m. on November 11th, 1918, but it was not until July 12th, 1919, just twenty years ago, that the war officially ended, for on that date, and not until that date, did the Allied Nations lift the blockade against Germany, and it is recorded that on July 12th, 1919, a number of ships containing cotton, foodstuffs and other materials, for the first time since 1917, left United States ports for Germany.

Now, after exactly twenty years, there is talk again of war, of possible blockades, and of the curtailment of supplies of foodstuffs and of raw materials to European Nations, just as it all was prior to July, 1919, twenty years ago.

The Allied Soldiers who won the great Victory and Peace in 1918, and who, moreover, won also the respect and friendship of the defeated nations, will no doubt wonder what the politicians of the world have been doing during the last twenty years to bring the world once again back exactly to the same sad and distressing state that existed during the war years.

Where is the great Victory and peace we won twenty years ago, Old Soldiers might all ask?

groups who believe they should unite to defeat the 54percent who backed the present government.

The following are extracts from the report of the Banking and Commerce committee at Ottawa in the session just closed Mr. Graham Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada was being questioned. His answers are illuminating.

Question: A banker can purchase a Dominion government bond by accepting from the government, we will say a $1,000 bond and giving the government a deposit in the bank for $1,000?

Mr. Towers: Yes.

Q: What the government receives is a credit entry in the bankers' books, showing the banker as a debtor to the government to the extent of $1,000.

Mr. Towers: Yes.

Q: And in law all that the bank has to hold in the way of cash to issue the deposit liability is 5 percent?

Mr. Towers: Yes.
(P. 76)

Q: Ninety five percent of all our business is being done with what we call exchange deposits—That is simply book-keeping entries in banks against which people write cheques?

Mr. Towers: I think that that is a fair statement. (P. 223.)

Q: Twelve percent of the money in use in Canada is issued by the government through the Mint and the Bank of Canada, and 88 percent is issued by the merchant banking system?

Mr. Towers: That is right (P. 286)

Q: When a $1,000,000 worth of bonds is presented (by the government) to the bank, a million dollars of new money or the equivalent is created?

Mr. Towers: Yes

Q: It is a fact that a million dollars of new money is created?

Mr. Towers: That is right (P. 298)

Q: Now as a fact, today our gold is purchased by the Bank of Canada with notes which it issues—not redeemable in gold—in effect using printing press money—to purchase gold?

Mr. Towers. That is the practise all over the world (P. 283)

Q: When you allow the merchant banking system to issue bank deposits—with the practise of using cheques—you virtually allow the banks to issue an effective substitute for money, do you not?

Mr. Towers: The bank deposits are actually money in that sense.

Q: As a matter of fact they are not actual money but credit, book keeping accounts, which are used as a substitute for money?

Mr. Towers: Yes.

Q: Then we authorize the banks to issue a substitute for money?

Mr. Towers: Yes, I think that is a very fair statement of banking. (P. 285)

Our critics say that fountain pen money is an "economic fallacy and printing press money is inflation."

Mr. Towers, says that banks do buy bonds, gold, or any other commodity which the bank wants, with printed paper, or (fountain pen) book entry money, having a five percent cash backing.

Mr. Towers says; That is the practise all over the world.
